

AUTHOR ACCOUNT

This form needs to be completed by the duly authorised corresponding author of the article. The signed form needs to be faxed back to +27 21 9145105

Authors are required to open an account for the payment of any publishing fees (if applicable). Publishing fees may be billed as Article Processing Fees (APF) or Galley Change Fees (GCF). Not all journals charge APF, as some may be sponsored, but GCF may be applicable – see policies underneath.

Agreement and undertaking by the submitting/corresponding author:

I, the undersigned (as submitting/corresponding author and on behalf of all contributing authors), understand that: (a) I will retain full responsibility for the payment of any publishing fees of the above named manuscript (as applicable), even if the responsibility for the payment has been transferred by me to a third party. (b) In the event that the article is to be retracted by the authors after acceptance, I will be liable for all costs incurred by OpenJournals Publishing at the point of retraction. (c) If the publishing fees for the above named manuscript is to be sponsored (i.e. the APF was formally waived by the editor or publisher, or the journal does not charge APF) the authors will not be held responsible for any APF.

Article Processing Fees (APF) Policy:

As no access fees are charged to online readers (i.e. open access), OpenJournals Publishing defrays publishing costs through APF on certain articles, or sponsorship from the title owner. The applicable APF for each journal is published on the journal website (see Author fees). The submitting/corresponding author is ultimately responsible for the payment of the APF (if applicable). APF will be invoiced once a manuscript has received editorial acceptance in principle. The APF is due within 30 days from invoicing. Payment can be made by Credit Card, Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT), or Cheque. The article will only be published once full payment has been received. If payment is done by EFT from a non-South African bank account, the author will be responsible for any bank transfer charges at the time of the transaction. In all cases, a receipt will be sent by email once payment has been received.

Galley Change Fees (GCF) Policy:

Authors will be given the opportunity to revise and approve the text of the accepted manuscript in the final phase of copyediting. After author approval the manuscript will go to design layout. The author will be asked to proofread the final galleys before going to publishing. Proofreading is intended to correct typesetting mistakes and not to introduce new changes to the text; such changes will require new layout of the pages. If new changes are introduced in this final proofreading stage, the publisher will charge GFC to the author, based on the cost incurred to make such changes.
